

Signal output of our Zeiss SEM VPSE detector as a function of the set chamber pressure

All three below images were generated at the same scan rate and the same values for brightness and contrast. Only the pressure inside the specimen chamber was different.

